of a chance meeting at Rockaway Beach summer before last. The two young men, both of whom are twenty-five, were sitting on the sand when the staters passed and one dropped a handkerchief. One of the men restored it and an acquintance began.

Sarah and Joseph were the first to become engaged, and agreed to keep in a secret. When Nettle and young Brechman plighted their troth, how-tier, the girl, who is niteteen and five.

Said, in a whisper. "Benjamin and I are engaged!"

"Weil," laughed Sarah, "you have nothing on Joseph and me. We have been engaged for some weeks."

So they decided to have both weddings at the same time. A large crowd of their friends filled the hall to see the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Brechman will live in Rhode Island and Mr. Silver in Manhattan. Air. Silver is a clerk for the New York Central Railroad.
